Dear General Manager:

Please accept the enclosed revised report of my written protest of WMWD current policies and proposed future policies based on the existing ones. Future policies cannot fundamentally be based on incorrect current policies.

The protest is not frivolous so please read it carefully. This version is version 1.15. Earlier versions did not complete the analysis of why the budgets are unreasonable and undecidable. This version has an inductive proof that the price of  $N$  ccfs of water has  $N$  possible prices. This makes the price of  $N$  ccfs of water subject to a discriminatory policy which WMWD calls a "budget".

We assert the customer's budget is what is called in theoretical computer science : OPT. Because OPT is undecidable and WMWD provides OPT when the bills are printed, customers must guess OPT and then adhere to it. Not only is the pricing asserted to be illegal, it is due to the inductive proof that the water's price is not based entirely on consumption but the ratio of OPT to consumption.

The guesswork to adhere to the budget must also be either illegal or unethical to expect as well. OPT is not computable before the end of the period of measurement and is undecidable until WMWD provides the correct answer to customers.

Sincerely yours,

Brett D. Fleisch, Ph.D.
